The family status certificate must include all the family members living at the same address

Parents

If you have both parents

They both must be in the family status certificate

If you don't have any parent

If you are orphan of both parents, you must submit a death certificate for each of them

If you only have one parent

Divorced or separated parents: you must submit the court papers, even if the proceeding is still pending

One parent died: you must submit the death certificate

One parent is untraceable: certificate of unavailability

Presence of a guardian: you must submit the act of appointment of the guardian

The father didn’t recognize the child: you must submit a birth certificate

Other members

(grandparents, uncles/aunts, stepfather/stepmother etc.)

They must be included in the family status certificate

Siblings

If in the natural family there are siblings over the age of 18 not living with the family of origin

If they are married, you must submit a marriage certificate

If they are not married, you must submit a residency certificate